

Recognizing the Call to Be of Service

Mushiba: When The Universe sends out the Call to Be of Service, it can be a very subtle Call ~ and, sometimes Recognizing it in its subtlety is the test. In his class, Call to Be of Service, Waith said:

Waith: “As you evolve in your own understanding of Self, you recognize that truly Being of Service comes from understanding the nuances of energy and the flow of energy.”

For me, Recognizing the Call to Be of Service is the first step and what begins the process ~ Acknowledging and Acting will follow in their own time.

I live in an apartment community. Recently, I saw a small McDonald’s bag, containing empty packaging, sitting by a shrub not too far from my front door. Both the shrub and the bag were not happy at their being brought together. So, I simply picked up the bag and placed it in the trash bin. While I could have left the bag for the maintenance crew, it was clear to me that the shrub and the bag were both happier that I responded.

Question to Ponder: What is a subtle Call to Be of Service that has been presented to you and how did you respond?
