

Organized Spiritual Thought

Mushiba: Organized Spiritual Thought is a phrase Waith first used in 1994 when he discussed the evolution of Organized Religion:

Waith: “Each illusion has, what you call, Organized Religion. While many entities do not feel the need for formal religion, it is not a reason to give negation to that which is Organized Religion.”

“Organized is a favorite word for many who come onto the earth plane to work on their sense of organizing. Religion is simply a translation that has its roots as spiritual awareness that becomes Organized Spiritual Thought that then becomes Organized Religion.”

“Organized Spiritual Thought starts as a small group who gather to discuss spiritual ideas ~ just as you all gather when we speak, or in your own homes with several others. It then begins to grow as more seek out discussions. Soon comes the need for organization.”

“As the group grows in number, so too, does the diversity of ideas. The similarities that brought the group together originally are beginning to disperse. Then, as those who founded the group leave the earth plane, the ideas that brought them together dilute. Into the group then comes new forms of communication, unknown to the original group ~ as you call it, language. With language comes interpretations that are different.

“As the group grows larger and more diverse, it needs even more organization. Its roots begin to spread far from its core until eventually this group becomes so large and its similarities now in the minority to the differences, that it becomes necessary for a cleansing.

“It is a predictable behavior of energy groupings that it reaches so large a size that it must come back to its roots so that it can begin again to spread and grow, until it reaches the point of largeness ~ brings itself back into a spiritual core and then expands again and then brings itself back. It is the neverending circle.

“It does not take much to make a group of entities with a single value and a single thought, develop into “The Truth”, saying, “This is the way.” This is predictable and essential. The fact that it becomes diluted over time is expected and is part of the path of patience and judgement when it comes to the evolution of Organized Spiritual Thought.”

Twenty-five years ago, Waith gave us information about Organized Religion that is particularly relevant for the world in which we now live. I believe that Organized Religions have reached their point of exaggeration and that it is time for a cleansing ~ an implosion ~ so that spiritual awareness can begin its journey again toward Organized Spiritual Thought > to Organized Religion > back to Spiritual Awareness...
