Greetings to all of you! ☺ We are in this class to answer questions of a general nature.

We went to Dairy Queen and the phenomenal happened when we were there. We need to know the answer to this question ~ do dogs get ice cream headaches? ☺

Indeed, a cosmic question. Well, you know, when any encasement ingests something that can be a shock to its system, it can create a vibrational cascade, if you will, that creates an energy in certain parts of the encasement that would indeed be a disharmony. ☺ ☺

Does it happen to cats too?

We did not specify the kingdom ~ we simply said, ENCASEMENTS. For example, if you put something on this carpet that created a shock to its vibration, it would have a disharmony that, in its own way, would be what you refer to as a HEADACHE. The energy encased in the carpet has a consciousness, and while it does not have what humans call a brain, it is a consciousness and certainly the consciousness can be affected.

So while your question is humorous, remember that everything is an encasement for energy and therefore everything has consciousness and must be treated as such.

Nothing works in isolation ~ everything is connected to everything else ~ consciousness is consciousness.

We have placed a great deal of information on the record regarding consciousness, for it is at the very heart of the Search for Self journey that each energy form takes.

Some of you indeed may be able to connect within Self to a lifetime in which you had your energy encased in a pillow or a carpet or metal, not to mention a plant or an animal, a mural, a tree, asphalt ~ everything is up for grabs. ☺

☀ If we come to this plane to learn lessons and grow, how can we grow being a pillow?

☀ Or even being an animal ~ an animal runs on instinct. I was thinking of my cats because they all have personalities.

They say the same thing about humans. ☺

I see the distinct personalities of my three cats, for instance, and while there're all different, I don't know how there're learning ~ this is difficult for me to understand.

We will go back to the pillow in a moment. Let us look at the animal. What is it learning by living with you? ☺ Seriously, my love?

I don't know. I love them very much.

Oh, indeed, so it is learning about love.

Understand that learning as perceived by the Human Kingdom is different from learning as perceived by other kingdoms. There are different lessons that are involved in each kingdom.

The Human Kingdom has a Menu of lessons and The Animal Kingdom has another Menu of lessons, The Mineral Kingdom, a Menu of lessons, The Pillow Kingdom, has a particular Menu of lessons. (Note: Please see the Waith Manuscript, Earth Plane Connection, for his discussion about The Menu of Lesson Learning.)

Inherent in all of the kingdoms are lessons that go with that particular kingdom as well as common lessons such as Love and Patience. The lessons that another kingdom has to learn may not be what The Human Kingdom would view as significant or important ~ nonetheless, they are lessons.

When you, as an energy, leave The Universal Consciousness, you specifically select the kingdoms to be entered. Some energy forms decide that they want to take on twenty two kingdoms, and another energy form wants to take on one hundred kingdoms. There are infinitesimal numbers of kingdoms.

You as your Soul energy ~ not you as a human ~ take on many different kingdoms and you know that there are certain lessons within those kingdoms that need to be learned.

You can pick and choose within the kingdoms those lessons you want to take on and the percentage that you want to take on for those lessons.

Let us say you decided to go into the kingdom that houses pillows ~ we will not go into an elaborate discussion of the names of the kingdoms, we will simply give you the frame of reference. So you have decided that within this kingdom that houses pillows, you want to learn something only that kingdom can offer.

We use an example. (Note: Waith addresses two class members.) The two of you are sitting on the sofa with three pillows between you. The purple pillow was positioned in a particular way, was it not? And you just moved it. What gave you the right to do that to the pillow?

I wanted it to be the center of attention. It may have given me permission someplace else, in another dimension.

That is a possibility because that pillow can communicate. This particular time it did not, and, what we call IMPOSITION, occurred. This is not a bad thing, my love, for this is a lesson to be learned. You decided that you wanted the pillow to be positioned in a different way than it was. Is this important in the scheme of things, for lesson learning?

Who is learning what lessons?

Both.

In what way?

The pillow is perhaps learning the lesson to not allow imposition and she is, perhaps, learning not to impose upon the pillow. (Note: referring to the person who moved the pillow)

Indeed. Why would a pillow have any right to not be imposed upon? The human decides that the pillow is going to be placed in a particular position ~ that should be enough, right?

- ☀ They're equal and all are deserving of respect.
- ☀ However, pillows essentially do not move. I'm not saying that they don't. In housekeeping, for example, it is normal to place a pillow in a spot where we want it.
- ☀ You can ask for permission first.

The pillow is placed in a position that is harmonious or not harmonious. How often have you gone into a place where there is a pillow that does not seem to be in its right place ~ does not seem to be harmonious? The energy is not flowing, if you will.

I didn't really think of it like that.

It is time to begin expanding your awareness of the interconnectedness of energy. The pillow has a consciousness and is here to be of service just as all energy is here to be of service. It has CHOSEN to be in this dimension on the earth plane ~ that is part of its path. It is here to provide comfort, solace, to be decorative and to provide many services.

And sometimes a pillow, in its own path of learning, can reject the advances made by a human in any number of ways, that unless you are connecting in a higher plane with the consciousness of the pillow, you would not understand.

The pillow allowed you to move it without giving any type of resistance. You do not have to say, "Hello pillow, can I move you" ~ rather, show it respect. In your imposition, you were respectful, because you patted it, yet you were still imposing. However, part of the service that the pillow allowed was the imposition.

You can be of service to another energy when they impose upon you by allowing the imposition, for it may not at a higher level of Self be an imposition ~ rather, a behavior of service ~ a fine line.

You sit on the carpet. One of its missions is to allow other energy to sit upon it. Energy sits upon energy. Human encasements have other energy that sits upon it ~ you simply are not aware of it in this dimension. It is agreed upon at a higher level of Self as part of the journey.

When you have finished with The Human Kingdom, you no longer have a human consciousness ~ you may have a plant consciousness, you may have a pillow consciousness. And into your Soul memory will go the human consciousness, not needed, in totality, as a pillow or as a plant or as a mineral.

This is really hard for me, because I'm guilty of taking for granted inanimate objects with the exception of The Mineral Kingdom or The Plant Kingdom.

Oh indeed. And this is part of the growth as a human ~ it is also part of the growth of anything other than human. All encasements have something to learn from each other in terms of its own interconnectedness. The pillow has to learn its interconnectedness with the sofa, with humans.

This particular sofa has to learn its interconnection with this particular carpet. The structure that you sit upon, my love, and that leans against the sofa has a consciousness. Its consciousness has something to learn from the consciousness of the sofa as well as the consciousness of the human as well as the carpet. And you have to learn the interconnectedness of the consciousness of that seating and the carpet ~ as well as the clothing that you wear that has consciousness.

Have you noticed that some people seem to flow and have great harmony with their surroundings? That is not an accident. There is something on the plane now that refers to the placement of the furniture and other items within the house.

Feng Shui.

It is all about energy flow, you see. This is not a new concept that we present. We give perhaps a little more energy management to it and the concept that everything is connected, not just the furniture, everything ~ everything in this room, the surroundings here. There are millions of energy forms encased in this room.

Every energy form is connected and when you walk into an environment and you feel that it is a right environment, you feel good in the environment ~ it means that there is a basic respect and harmony that all have for each other.

When you walk into a room that does not feel harmonious~ does not feel right ~ it is simply an indication that the energy is discordant and that, in itself, is a lesson to be learned for all the energies that happen to be in that room ~ how to become harmonious.

And those who would be responsible for the appearance of a room have significant lessons to learn in terms of listening to everything in the room from an energy management perspective and making changes as they need to. As vibrations change, so too does placement change.

So negative energy can be removed and changed?

Oh indeed. It is necessary.

If someone has a very cluttered apartment, is that a negative?

It does not necessarily mean that it is, first, a negative energy and, second, that it needs to be removed. We would not refer to it as negative energy. We would refer to it as energy that is no longer appropriate for your environment.

So clearing it out is not being disrespectful, is it?

No, it is not. You simply do not discard things. You have some type of, for lack of a better descriptive, a conversation ~ and this takes practice and respect.

As energies grow in their awareness of their energy and the place that it has within the totality of the environment, changes occur. For example, there are many energies that used to be in this main classroom of Terra Lux that are no longer here. Some of them will go to new people, as you might call it and others will not. They will go on a new journey ~ it is called the dumpster.

And this, again, is a journey. Understand this. You simply do not discard something because you want to get rid of it. You discard it because it no longer flows within the energy. Either it has not grown in its own energy enough to be harmonious with your environment or it is time for it to go to a new place.

Energy goes where it needs to go. Encasements go where they need to go. Take yourself out of the human perspective of growth and journeying. Energy places itself in situations where it is either going to help those in its surroundings to grow, it is going to grow as a result of being in the surrounding, or some combination. It the teaching and learning component.

We take so much for granted in this human form. And, while I've always known about the interconnectedness of everything, I never extended it to things that I consider inanimate objects.

All energy, as part of its goal, attempts to learn how to communicate with each other. The challenge comes when you learn to communicate with inanimate objects, as you call them. They are as vital an energy as your energy in the human encasement ~ simply encased in a different format, if you will.

This is not something where you suddenly hear the words in your head, "Ah-h-h, there it is ~ I'm talking to the pillow." In most cases, it is simply something that flows where you do not concretely know that you are hearing another kingdom communicate with you and you with it.

There is a double edged sword to learning how to communicate with encasements other than human. 😊😊

Why would anyone choose to come in as a rock or a piece of plastic or whatever? Because whatever lessons we have are only going to be intellectually, we can never act out any decisions.

Ah-h-h, you do not know that, my love, and this is normal for it comes from a human perspective. Remember that you can choose or choose not to go into any particular form ~ it is not anything that is imposed upon you.

When you choose a particular form, there then will be certain requirements that you have to adhere to, just as when you choose in your schooling to do a course of study. There are classes that you must take in order to complete and you have no choice for they are what you call required. So you take that class even though you do not particularly care for it.

The same is true within any of the kingdoms. There are certain lessons that you must take on and those are what you refer to as the Universal Lessons. And then the others are what you call electives ~ you have x number of electives that must be taken in order to complete a particular kingdom. As a human, your perspective is that of a human consciousness.

In actuality, there is no superiority in any consciousness. It is your consciousness ~ you as an energy. You take on a different FORM because you want to learn what it is like. And the duration of a particular incarnation within a kingdom could be a moment, in the perspective of a human, or it could be, in the perspective of The Mineral Kingdom, hundreds or thousands of years.

Every form that an energy takes is chosen by that energy ~ it is not imposed upon you and there is something to be learned. Your human consciousness may not ever know what it was that needed to be learned. However, your Soul will, because you have your Soul consciousness that contains all the information about all the journeys and all the kingdoms that you have been in.

And while you may not be able to tap into that information as a human within a human encasement, you certainly are able to tap into that information whenever you want to, regardless of the kingdom you happen to be in currently. It is just that most energy, while incarnated into a particular form, does not tap into the very highest of their Soul consciousness ~ it is not necessary for it would be information overload.

What about a chair? That is something that humans put together. Is that a collection of energies that was already metal and fir and other items? When we refer to the chair's energy, is that one energy or is that just a convenient way of categorizing?

It is a convenient way of describing a particular item. Humans, for example, are composed of hundreds and hundreds of kingdoms. For example, there is The Blood Kingdom, The Muscle Kingdom, The Skin Kingdom and The Hair Kingdom. Never again can you claim to be alone, you see. 😊😊

And then there is the central energy of the human that can best be described as the master controller of the encasement. However, all must work in harmony with the master human consciousness, with all of the sub consciousness that is within it.

Do not think that you are at the end of the food chain. The Human Kingdom is of service to other kingdoms ~ just as blood is of service to your encasement, you are of service to another encasement.

Are Angelics light beings?

Please define LIGHT BEING?

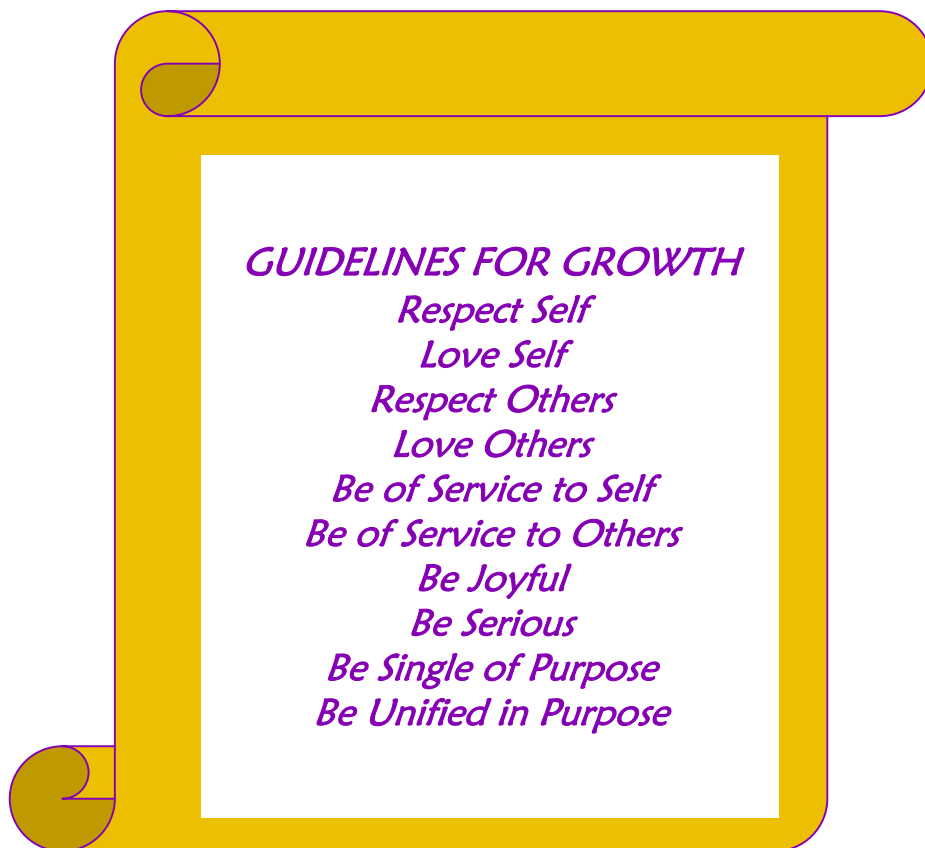

Nothing Physical.

Oh no. We have a physical being. All energy has to be encased. It has a concrete and it has an abstract. You are communicating now with an abstract version ~ we will not go into that any further.

We depart now and thank you for allowing us to be of service to you. Receive the energy.

We send to you all the very highest of the white light from the very highest of the Kingdom of Amelius. Farewell.

Bye and thanks, Waith!!
