TOPIC

CALL TO BE OF SERVICE

PLEASE NOTE:

*Waith's words appear in this font style, size and color.
If one from his Spirit Group speaks, they will be identified.*

Questions and responses from those in the class appear in this font style, size and color.

☀ Indicates multiple responses from class members.

The issue of service has become a rather one sided perspective ~ service as it would relate to the needs of the person giving the service, rather than the needs of those for whom the service is given. It is, however, the first step an entity must take before they can truly begin to understand the requirement to Be of Service to Others.

As indicated in our Guidelines for Growth, you must Be of Service to Self, which then enables you to Be of Service to Others. (Note: Please see Page 15 for a listing of the Guidelines for Growth.) The only amount of service that you can give to another is the degree to which you have given to Self. The fine line is drawn between being Selfish and being Selfless ~ which is the issue that we present in this discussion.

The greatest call that comes from The Universal Consciousness is that of being Selfless ~ not thinking of Self first ~ rather, thinking of others. The ability to NOT think of Self first while being of Service to Others, requires that you are secure in your own identity of Self and have the ability to give of Self based on the satisfaction of your own needs.

There is a sense within Self that you must have achieved perfection WITHIN before you can give of Self to others ~ this is not correct. The correctness is that, as you achieve even an iota of understanding of Service to Self, The Universe then expects that you give that back. It is in the holding back of the request from The Universe to be of service that the blockages occur ~ that so many areas of difficulty occur within an energy who is very deliberately blocking the hearing of the Call To Be Of Service to Others.

It is a difficult issue for many entities to give of Self, for they fear they will be taken advantage of. However, that is the journey ~ that is the way in which the understanding comes of your own fine line between being Selfish and Selfless.

As you feel that you are being abused by another ~ for they take advantage of you ~ you retreat within Self and become Selfish. However, unless you are taken advantage of by another, you will not know where your own fine line is between being of service to others and being of service to Self ~ Selfish and Selfless.

It comes back to the ever present situation of finding your own answers within Self ~ not what another would say to you is your line of service ~ rather, what YOU feel is your line of service.

To find YOUR line, you must stretch yourselves ~ you must place yourself into an arena of being of service to others to the point where you may, indeed, feel that you are being taken advantage of. Keep pushing yourself to Be of Service to Others until you find that line ~ that point where you say, "Enough is enough ~ it is time now for me to retreat into Self to evaluate how much I've progressed in my ability to Be of Service to Self."

As the tide that comes onto the shore moves forward, it moves back. And it moves forward again and it progresses, and it moves back. This attitude is what you need in your search for bringing greater strength and ability to Be of Service to Others.

Some entities have a very large space around them to Be of Service to Others for they have worked over many, many lifetimes. Others have a much smaller space to Be of Service to Others, for they have not worked this particular issue in the same way that one with a larger space would have.

What you might feel is an imposition on YOU by another, someone else may not feel that at all ~ they may have experienced that level of service so that it is integrated within Self and they are not feeling imposed upon. However, that individual would then have another point at which they would feel imposed upon. Thus it becomes important that you find your own point between Selfless and Selfish.

SELFISH is not a bad word ~ it is not a bad place to be from our perspective, from the perspective of The Universe.

Why do we say that being Selfish is not a bad place to be from the perspective of The Universal Consciousness?

We need to be in one place to understand that of the other. In order to experience Selflessness, we have to experience Selfishness.

Yes. You have to be at some point ~ you have to be SOMEWHERE. You are somewhere right now and, in a nanosecond you will be somewhere else.☺ You have moved ever so slightly in your energy even though it appears to not be moving at a physical level ~ movement of energy is always there. Each energy is always at a point and it moves infinitesimally sometimes ~ nonetheless, it moves.

The point where an energy is then becomes the issue. You may be, at this moment in time, feeling Selfish about giving of Self and in five minutes that changes, for any number of reasons. You now say, "I have thought about it or something has changed in these five minutes in my own vibrational field and I now will give of Self a bit."

The issue of Selfishness and Selflessness is not limited to just the human encasement ~ all energies are involved. Every encasement is of service.

You may find, for example, that in the environment of Terra Lux there is a sense of comfort and harmony. The balancing of service is finely tuned so that you sit on a rug whose purpose is to be of service for the function that you find yourself utilizing. You do not hurt the rug when you sit or walk on it. Thus, there is an understanding of being of mutual service, which ultimately balances with all else that is in The Universe.

In order to Be of Service, how do we find our spot, where it clicks ~ where we feel that we are being of the best service ~ or do we just do something for the sake of doing it?

You bring up a paradox. In what way do you know how to find the need? The way you are able to identify where you need to be of service eventually becomes instinctive. Until you reach that point, simply jump in and say, "Oh, that looks like something I could do."

Another situation would be where you would say to someone, "How can I help you ~ I want to help you?" They may say to you, "Well, you can do this, this and this." Or they may say, "Well, we want you to tell us how you can help us." You find your spot.

Ultimately, that is the way to be of service ~ where you find what feels right for you. Then, by finding what is right for you, you are at the same time ~ in a simultaneous way ~ responding to the needs of another. That is where you begin to understand the connection. Until you reach that point, you simply forge ahead. It is the only way that you will begin to know where your line is.

When an opportunity to be of service comes to you ~ jump in and start.

Someone in that energy grouping may recognize and think, "Oh, we could take advantage of this person." Balancing, then, comes into place. Someone who is working on their own issues of power balancing, for example, would say, "We will USE her, for she is saying that she wants to help ~ let's abuse her by taking advantage."

You, in your path, are looking for that point where you realize that you are being taken advantage of. It may not be in this lifetime that you realize it. You may go the entire life working within a grouping where they take advantage of you. Or you may say very quickly, "They're taking advantage of me ~ I'll stop this."

You may have learned where your line is and you have a small space around you rather than a large space.

It is like everything else ~ you must jump in and do it and not sit back, analyzing it and saying, "Well now, if I agree to do this, what will happen ~ and I know that the basic rule in The Universe is that we receive back what we give ~ so how much will I get back if I give this and when will I get it back, and in what form?" There are many who have this attitude that they must have something in return that is very concrete and definable ~ and in this lifetime.☺

Do not be concerned as to where your line is. Just allow yourself to experience what is occurring and trust that you will be guided along the way. You are not in this trip alone ~ remember that.

Everything that you do is with the help of Spirit Guides and Angelic Protectors and others around you at concrete. Someone may say to you, "Have you really thought about the implications of what you are doing?" And, it may create a red flag in you, or at least a yellow one, that says, "Perhaps I should step back a bit ~ I have had someone who I trust say to me that, 'Perhaps you should rethink what you are doing and the reason that I think you should rethink is.....'"

Remember that your journey is with many, many guides ~ both within the dimension that you exist ~ and interdimensionally. Be always ready to call upon them for that type of service, for they are being of service to you.

I have already been of service to others, I have already been taken advantage of and it didn't matter to me because I still gave. Everyone berated me for it, and I did it anyway. I learned from it and I think I would still do it again. As far as identifying where I am at that point, I don't seem to know if I'm there or not.

You have brought up several points. You never reach the final point of saturation, if you will, of being of service to others. You find a point where you think your line is. You learn from it if you have been taken advantage of and step back and say, "I have learned." Now the line is moved again, so that you journey to a new line and learn new ways in which to be of service.

You are correct in saying, "I would do it again," for this is the point ~ everything that you do is the right thing to do. Even if you think you made the wrong choice, it was meant for you to have made that choice.

Everything that you experience is the right choice.

Often you have hundreds of choices for any single situation. You may not realize it at concrete ~ it is at a more abstract spirit level. And, any one of those one hundred or so possible responses will be correct. Some of those responses may detour you in your path ~ they may take you into a new path ~ in fact ~ a new journey.

Eventually you come back to the main journey ~ whether it is the life in which the detour occurred ~ or hundreds of lifetimes later.

So, when an entity says, "If I had it to do over again, I would change this, this and this," they are creating negative energy. Who you are at this point RIGHT NOW is the result of the decisions you made in the past and if you were to change any of those decisions, you would not be who you are now.

Who you are now is who you are supposed to be.

How am I to find who I am and what my path is?

Focusing to Gain Awareness is the way to find your answers within Self. Focusing, however, serves only a small part of the totality ~ for then you must take that information and act upon it. Then there is the question, "How do I know that what I'm getting in my focusing is the right thing?" You will not know that until you start testing it ~ and then you become more and more aware of your own line and what is truth within Self and what may be coming from some mischievous entity, for example ~ trying to invade your thoughts.

One way to learn more about Focusing to Gain Awareness is to study our Search for Self material, which gives you concepts and applications. This is a tool that can help you find who you are and what is your path.

As you go through each of the steps in the Guidelines for Growth, you are developing your own sense of Self and are able to give of Self. The more that you give of Self, the more that will be expected from you, for as you give, you receive ~ and as you receive, you give ~ a most beneficial and beautiful cycle.

Even when you are being taken advantage of ~ being abused in those extremes ~ you are in a beautiful cycle, for you are learning about Self. And that is the most beautiful of all, that you learn of Self. How you do that is your path.

Whatever path you take is always a spiritual path. A PATH CAN BE NOTHING OTHER THAN SPIRITUAL. There is no difference between a spiritual path and any other path. The elitists would say, "I am on a spiritual path and you're not."

You are here ~ you exist ~ you are on a path ~ and it is a spiritual one.

We live in a world where so many people want to help, and yet the recipients don't want help. Is it that the person who wants to help needs to feel better and wants to give money to someone who is on a lower level?

You have brought up many of the issues of being of service to others.

As was asked, “How do I know where to be of service ~ how do I identify the need” ~ the balancing is the issue here. You may try to help another because you feel guilty ~ you feel sorry for them ~ you think you are better than they are and, therefore, they would be better served by your being helpful.

When you attach conditions to your service, it means that you have not reached a balance and that you are trying to find your line.

Most entities are generally trying to find their line. You will find the line, stay on it for a while ~ and then it becomes boring because you have balanced that particular percentage of learning and so you push the line out again. (Note: See Waith's discussion of Percentages of Learning in the Waith Manuscript, Earth Plane Connection.)

What you have just described is part of the balancing ~ those who try to force their help upon those who do not want to be helped. This is why learning about Self is so critical.

At an energy level you instinctively will recognize that someone, while they could use your help, does not want your help. You would say to Self, “Do I back away, for I know that they don't want my help, or do I push ahead a bit because I think that I know what's best for them, and once they see that I know what's best for them, they will respond?”

Imposition upon another must occur ~ it is essential ~ that is the balance and that is how you find your line. Where one is balanced there must be the imbalance and eventually that becomes balanced.

Find harmony in the disharmony in which you exist.

Your entire world is always in disharmony. The earth plane itself is in disharmony. However, remember that there are other training grounds that are in harmony ~ hence the balance. So you are looking ~ each of you ~ at a very small segment of the total balancing issue. It is your position then to try and do what YOU feel is right.

Whatever you choose is the right decision. While it may not create the end result that YOU, at concrete, had hoped for, it was the right decision, for you step back from it ~ and all those involved, at some of their levels, will step back from it ~ and say, “What was learned here?”

Each energy has their own line that they are working toward. Yours will be different from the line of another ~ which will be different from the line of another. The balance, and the path, is in interacting with those who have very different lines that they are progressing toward. We do not say to you, “You must not impose upon another” ~ for imposition is part of your journey.

Eventually, as you reach greater and greater harmony, you do not impose ~ for your own balancing has reached those levels that you have chosen to take on for a particular lifetime. You are not trying to bring balance for one hundred percent of your levels of understanding ~ only a particular small percentage.

In any given life you may reach that line that you had decided would be reached in a particular life. You reach that line and say, "I have no more to learn PERCENTAGEWISE about being of service, for this life ~ I have learned one percent out of one hundred." It appears then, that you have reached the level of harmony ~ perfection ~ and you feel comfortable in the way that you are of service to others.

You, then, go into another life and say, "I have another one percent toward this one hundred percent total ~ so here's one percent ~ it's my harmony."

Then it starts over and you are disharmonious within Self for THAT one percent for THAT lifetime. Because you have learned one percent already, it may enable you to learn more quickly the one percent in the next lifetime. You may then say, "I think I'll take on another one percent while I'm still here," because you can do that. ☺

To Be of Service to Others is one of those barometers that you have in terms of understanding your own sense of balance within Self. As you feel more comfortable being of service, it is an indicator that you are becoming more balanced. As you do not put attachments to what you do for others, you become more and more harmonious within Self for a particular lifetime.

To say, "I will help you if I get this, this and this back in return" is not particularly harmonious. It is certainly appropriate behavior for you to learn as you progress toward your line. However, it is an indication that you have a distance to travel if you put strings on it ~ as opposed to an entity who simply says, "I know that The Universe will call upon me when I'm needed ~ I don't need to go seeking out to be of service." This is where an understanding of your own balance comes into discussion.

The Universe is keeping track of what you have given and received over many lifetimes. And as The Universe needs an energy to do something to help in maintaining the balance, it will call upon you. It is as simple as that. ☺

Do not be concerned about what you SHOULD be doing and saying, "Oh, I want to help humanity."

Let The Universe present the need to you and it will be.

There are opportunities presented consistently in your lifetime ~ each of you ~ to be of service. Some of them you ignore ~ some of them you choose not to take ~ others you do not even see.

This is all part of the journey ~ you are not expected to respond to everything that is presented to you. It would be a bombardment beyond your capabilities. So you are selective in what you respond to.

Trust that you are being presented ~ every moment of every instant of your existence ~ with opportunities to be of service. They may be small ~ you may not recognize them.

To Be of Service to Others does not mean some DRAMATIC activity that you engage in and the whole world responds and says how wonderful you are, how altruistic you are. It is in the very simple, small things.

Being of service is being respectful to the surroundings that you find yourself in. If you respect yourself enough, then you will recognize the need of another for respect at the same level. And then the degree of your own imposition upon another is tempered by your Self awareness of your own level of respect of Self.

Rather than trying to find something to be of service, we can walk into any situation for a moment or a day, into a nursing home or hospitals to pass out magazines, for example. We can find in any situation the opportunity to respect others and be of service, and to the environment as well.

Aptly said, my love ~ that you will be called upon. Some of that CALL may be dramatic, where you find yourself involved on the larger stage of life. Or, you may find yourself in sub roles. Your daily existence is ultimately a reflection of serving others by the way in which you treat them.

Your respect of others can only come in the same degree as you Respect Self. The ways in which you learn to Respect Self come from going OVER the line in any of your issues ~ going to the exaggeration of it. You might be one selfish little energy ~ just me, me, me, me for a lifetime, for several lifetimes. That enables you to go into a reflective state ~ whether it is through focusing or after the life ~ and to look at the effects upon those around you of the me, me, me attitude. You learn from THAT in reflection.

Then you come into a life, planning ahead, knowing the impact of that attitude and behavior upon those around you. A lifetime may be spent in just moving back a bit toward that line that you have crossed, until finally ~ whether it is just one lifetime or several lifetimes ~ you have moved back to the line. You are standing there saying, "Now I know my line because I have done the exaggerations ~ I have been very, very selfish in one series of lifetimes ~ and in another series of lifetimes I have been very, very selfless ~ and in doing that it has brought me to recognize my line."

This is not something that occurs in one lifetime ~ a beginning and an end in a lifetime. Service to others and to Self comes as a THREADING throughout lifetimes. Each life is meant for you to be working on some component of it ~ and going to Self through focusing helps to give you some of that insight.

The fact that you are doing anything ~ thinking at all about service ~ means that this is something that you have taken on to do. Trust in Self to do the best that you can. It is really quite simple.

The other people in an entity's life are who can bring complications when they might say, "You should be doing this and you shouldn't be doing that ~ that was a bad thing, they took money from you and look what happened."

Well, it was meant for that to happen ~ you have learned something ~ and if you have not, it will be presented to you again, perhaps in a different package, until you have learned it to the degree that you need. 😊

The opportunity is presented continuously until you learn what it is that you have come into a lifetime to learn. Look at all these wonderful issues of judgement which always thread through ~ judging another. Someone judges you for your behavior and say, "You shouldn't be doing that." Well, it is not for anyone else to say.

Be most careful of even judging yourself and saying, "Oh, I was a bad, bad energy ~ I should not have done that." As we stated earlier, what you did was what you were supposed to do.

Forgive yourself, continuously. Say, "I was supposed to do that. "Then carry on and learn from it, reflecting and thinking, "I was supposed to do that ~ I'm not happy with the results of it, yet I was supposed to do it ~ what have I learned from it?"

We are all being faced with much junk mail, with people asking for money, for donations. People have a horrible story about someone who is suffering somewhere, and call upon our conscience to donate. How would you comment on this issue?

You have placed yourself in this environment very deliberately, so you must be prepared for those who would respond to you. People will be coming to ask you for one thing or another. However, there is more than money at issue here.

TAKE THE FOCUS OFF MONEY. Money, or that which is exchange that shows value for one thing or another, is a byproduct ~ it is not to be the main product. It comes as a result of a spiritual mission of being of service. Place it into the arena of prosperity and not money.

Prosperity is the umbrella and money is only one particular tool of prosperity.

It is not a negative that you place yourself into it ~ it is so you can learn. As we said earlier, The Universe is continually bombarding each energy with opportunities. You ignore some, you do not see others, and others, you simply say, Maybe I'll do this, I'll think about it."

The only way that you can learn through Self is to be bombarded and to know how to make your piles, if you will and say, "This is something I may think about ~ this is something I absolutely will not think about ~ this is something I absolutely will think about."

You will not know until you have been bombarded and then look at each one of those requests through a discerning eye.

What is really being asked here? It becomes a Self contained situation. Oftentimes energies are very quick to blame The Universe and say, "The Universe sent me too much." The Universe sent you only what you requested at higher levels.

At the Soul level the Soul has said, "This is the rate at which we want the bombardment to occur ~ an opportunity every nanosecond ~ an opportunity every second ~ an opportunity every minute ~ an opportunity every day."

Your Soul determines the rapidity of opportunities ~ some may be bombarded much greater because they have chosen that for whatever their reasons. The same exists, then, in the situation that you present. You have, at a Soul level, determined how much of a bombardment you will have. It is no greater than you are capable of responding to.

You must look at it in a much closer way and not be blaming some outside force for all of this ~ rather, recognize it as the opportunity for you to learn to cut through the clutter. The clutter will always exist ~ that is part of the learning of lessons and how to be of service.

You are OF SERVICE, as you are needed.

There are perceptions about giving, and we might not necessarily be performing a service for prosperity, and then it's going to nag us. It gives us a lot of pressure when people think we should be doing a certain thing, and yet we don't want to, necessarily. I'm struggling with that.

Indeed, and it goes back to Self, where you are discerning and say, "It doesn't matter if the world says it's the right thing to do, I do not feel, for Self, that it is the right thing to do ~ there is something else that I feel is better as the right thing to do."

If everyone responded to only ONE right thing to do, then everything else would be neglected. If everyone wanted to contribute to world hunger, nothing else would be done. Each energy has their own menu of RIGHT things to do.

I have viewed being of service as helping to get our neighbor's crops in before the hail. Now, it's 'send in the money' because they're doing research for someone who may not need the money.

That is a very small part of the totality of being of service. There are many on the plane who do not give money to any of those situations. They have chosen their own way of being of service ~ perhaps, not even in an organized way ~ that is small and what you might call insignificant to the greater world ~ and not recognizable. Yet, they contribute tremendously to the overall balance.

Most of the service is done in very small, insignificant and unrecognizable ways. It is only the larger stage that APPEARS to be the higher percentage of service opportunities. In actuality, in the scheme of service opportunities, it is a very small percentage.

You must have an understanding of the VALUE component that is associated with service. Service has nothing to do with money ~ money is a byproduct. Service is where you contribute Self to another. You contribute a part of Self to another ~ it is not any simpler than that.

How you do that is your path and journey ~ and how you reach that point within Self of feeling comfortable that you do not have to SHOW what you are being of service about where someone would say, "Look at this entity ~ look how this person gives so much money to this organization ~ aren't they wonderful?"

This may be part of their path and would be an appropriate behavior for that person and those involved. However, as you are evolving in your own understanding of Self, you recognize that truly being of service comes from understanding the nuances of energy and the flow of energy.

As we learn more about Self and our place and talents, do we then have a different awareness of being of service and what we would want to do?

Yes, my love. As you become more confident in Self and increase your levels of awareness within Self, it enables you to see levels of awareness that are still evolving ~ and that you have evolved from. You are able to see a level of understanding that another has that is different from yours, and now you understand ~ and it gives you a greater ability to be of service.

As you understand Self and are comfortable and respectful of Self, the appropriate opportunities are presented to Self.

If we haven't fully understood or reached that level of understanding, can we at least understand the process to help others?

The process is a circle. You begin the process when you initially come out of The Universal Consciousness. You may not be aware that you have begun the process ~ yet, you have ~ and very quickly you go through the cycle of that process, which is essentially the Guidelines for Growth.

Once you go through that cycle, you are locked into the process and it becomes much like a snowball that, as you keep rolling it, it becomes bigger and bigger ~ and you have gained greater strength and knowledge.

The mass of understanding increases as you go through that cycle and roll it over and over again. Then, you are this very big snowball. Suddenly you see, coming down the hill, another snowball that has just started ~ it is very small. It comes up to you and you say, "I remember what it was like to be where you are ~ if you need me, I'm here for you."

This comes again to the issue of where do you impose and where do you not impose and might then say, "I am a big snowball now and I can help you if you so need it."

You have sent out to The Universe that you are ready and The Universe knows this.

However, you can say, "I am ready now to aid this small snowball ~ don't get too close to the fire, little one," ☺ "and if we collaborate, we can become a unit ~ even though you are smaller than I am, it does not mean that we can't contribute something to each other's path ~ for here, jump up on top and I will carry you a bit ~ and then we will find another large snowball and form a unit ~ and you will learn from us and we will learn from you, for truly you have learned things in your path that are different ~ the snowflakes that you have picked up are different from the snowflakes that we have picked up."

Sometimes I find that I can't forgive myself and take on all kinds of blame for not doing things for others when I think that I should have.

The ability to forgive Self is an evolutionary process ~ for ultimately, forgiveness is an act of judgement ~ you are saying that something was wrong. To say that you forgive someone, whether it is outside of Self or Self, means that you are indicating that you are judging them ~ that there should be something to forgive.

There is nothing to forgive if you understand that everything you do and choose to do is the right thing to do ~ from the perspective of The Universal Consciousness.

Then why should we forgive Self because then we are judging ourselves?

Why, indeed? There is the paradox. Why do we say that one of the precepts of The Universe is forgiveness ~ and it must occur?

Most energies do not understand the higher order and feel that concretely, if they forgive, then they are moving along in their path ~ and indeed they are for they are forgiving Self ~ a very conscious thing. When you forgive another, it is a very positive energy that comes into your field that states you are moving along ~ you are increasing your awarenesses.

You will reach the point in your path ~ whether it is this lifetime or in the future ~ where you simply know that what you do is the right thing to do.

Rather than look at forgiving Self, you look BEFORE you behave at the possible implications of your behavior for Self ~ and understand the possible implications of your behavior toward those around you. You take that responsibility ~ understanding that it is the right thing to do ~ and, if your behavior creates difficulties in the world around you, you have a responsibility because of your behavior.

Forgiveness is simply an earth plane tool to make you feel less guilty as you move along your path.

Is it inappropriate to think about the responsibility we have in giving selflessly to another to think about our responsibility to help that person? Is it better to teach a person how to fish rather than just giving them fish? Is it wrong to think that we may be depriving them of learning something?

So in a way we are second guessing ourselves.

In many ways you are. Understand that you do not need to worry about it ~ this is the point. You could wind yourself up like a little spinning top. ☺ You need to simply respond in the best way you feel appropriate for Self and evaluate your behavior on a regular basis ~ and the world around you ~ and the world in which you live.

We need to trust our intuition?

Trust what you call intuition. People sometimes downplay intuition ~ they call it imagination. Listen to the voice within and respond to that voice. You may find that the voice within had insufficient information ~ that is all right because you receive the information that you NEED by acting ~ going out and doing something.

The worst thing that can happen is that it was not exactly what you had hoped it would be. And that is not a bad thing ~ it just means it is time to learn something and it is time to act.

There is a fine line between spending too much time ANALYZING something and DOING it. Part of our discussion in the Search for Self is that you understand how to hear Self without becoming obsessed with it and saying, "Before I act on anything, I must analyze everything." That is not what we are saying.

Accepting responsibility means that you may do something spontaneously ~ or it appears that it is spontaneous.

You have not thought about the implications of your behavior and then you find that there are implications that have a rather dramatic effect on certain people around you. And then you automatically take responsibility ~ you do not place blame by saying, "It was not my fault ~ I didn't think enough about my behavior."

That is where the responsibility comes in. The decisions that you make at concrete level are the end result of the other dimensions of Self. You are only the concrete tool for the other dimensions of Self. It is all One ~ nonetheless, every level has their little job. ☺

It seems that we need to act on things, on one hand, and being concerned about the effect of our behavior on another, yet also not wondering how that behavior is a part of the path of another.

Indeed. You cannot look at another and determine from their behavior what they have to learn.

Simply look at another and understand that they walk their path. You may be a part of their path ~ and if you are a part of their path and they a part of your path, you will know it soon enough. There is not this need to say, "Well, who is learning from whom and who is teaching whom?" That is not of any consideration or concern, ultimately ~ just that you are interacting, and you are a part of each other's path.

Whether you like what they are doing or not is part of the mutual journey that you may have taken. And again, for you to say, "I don't like what they're doing and I'll stay away ~ I'll not make a comment," is a very nice, spiritual concept ~ however, it may, indeed, not be part of the balancing.

It might be that you are SUPPOSED to get into their vibration and be opinionated about what they should do and they may, indeed, respond to you. You learn this through simply the DOING of it and then the REFLECTION of it within Self.

Some entities on the plane go an entire lifetime without any kind of reflection, at least concretely. They are, as you would say, in everyone's face all the time. That is a particular path that they have chosen ~ and all those who come into their life are part of that journey to learn something, or to serve as a model for another in terms of response and behavior.

This all really comes down to very simple things ~ trust in Self ~ take responsibility for Self ~ understand that there are implications to the world around you for your behavior. Whether you take that responsibility or not is part of what you learn and the path that you travel.

I think that there shouldn't be any judgement at all in the world.

Well that would be an ideal earth plane. ☺ However, it is not an ideal world and, therefore, there is judgement.

How you deal with judgement is part of the learning process. Judgement ~ nonjudgement ~ it is a universal precept to be nonjudgemental, unconditional in your love that reaches only PERCENTAGES of perfection outside of The Universal Consciousness.

Understand that it comes from within Self first and that it is then extended outside of Self to others ~ and that it is always evolving ~ never reaching the point of PERFECT service to Self and PERFECT service to others.

Rather, you find the percentage, the degree to which you are comfortable ~ and then you stretch your limits. The journey is always about Self first ~ not Selfishness ~ Self. To Be of Service to Self enables you to then Be of Service to Others.

We are pleased to have been of service to you during this gathering.

We send to you all the very highest of the white light from the very highest of the Kingdom of Amelius. Farewell!

Farewell, Waith, and thank you!
