Susan Discusses The Lifelines That Someone Is Experiencing In Their Dreams

I try to listen to my dreams. The impression I get out of a lot of my dreams are like double realities and double dimensions. Is someone trying to tell me something?

Susan: That which you refer to in your language as a double reality is in actuality a connection with another lifeline that you have. Waith has discussed the topic of lifelines, and you have three lifelines as an energy form, and at varying times you will make connections with a lifeline. It is an opening up of soul memories that are helping you to solve particular problems in this conscious manifestation that you find yourself in now, and you are going to the other lifelines to help you, and therefore you see what you might call a double reality, for you have three different realities depending upon the lifeline that is being worked on.

In your particular case, you have another simultaneous lifetime occurring, and of the three lifelines, therefore two are simultaneous now and one is not. It is in the Soul memory. And it is the Soul memory lifeline that you are seeking out information to help you in the merging of the lifelines, for the simultaneous lifeline currently is in need of merging, and you seek out the techniques for that merging, and it will make this physical manifestation that you currently are in much stronger.

I do not know if my husband can handle that! 😊 😊

Susan: Ah, yes. We will be having a session very soon on a special topic, Waith has indicated, the role of the female energies in helping the male energies. It has been touched upon by Waith in other times, and we know that it becomes an issue of great concern recently. The female energies seem to be gaining in strength and finding relationships with the male energies to be deteriorating in some cases simply because of the fact of their being, and so this will be a special topic where we will give you guidance and it will be one in which Bathusela and I will come through with Waith.

It will occur after this current cellular change that Mushiba goes through, for after this particular cellular change, we will be able to occupy simultaneously the vibration and we will be able to carry on conversations as if we were all just sitting here, and so the three of us will be able to speak without pauses to come and go. It will be after this cellular change which will be the first of what would be the New Year. We will in the meantime give you some guidance in how to interact, male and female energies. It is not for this particular time, for Waith will set the stage, shall we say, for this by providing certain types of information. It will begin, he tells me now to tell you, with sessions beginning perhaps next time or the time after.

Susan Discusses The Paradox of The Soul's Master Plan and That of Free Will

Susan, when you talked about forgiveness, you made a reference to the Master Plan. My understanding of the Master Plan is like this ~ when good things happen, we all rejoice. When bad things happen, sometimes we seem to think that this is our own creation, but many times it is not. It is something that was thrust upon us either by circumstances or by outside forces. Does this mean to say that the Global Plan is working and therefore we are suffering, or we are rejoicing? Or in other words, we are not always ourselves the masters of our action.

Susan: Quite the contrary, my dearest one. You are all the masters of your own soul. Nothing is thrust upon you. It is requested by the Soul so that even the attacks by the darkness are those that are necessary for the Soul's growth and the Soul's ability to become strong and to protect itself. Nothing is thrust, as you say, upon you. You are all your own masters. Nothing comes to you unless it is requested. That is the Master Plan, simply stated.

It is far more complex than that and an area where Waith really needs to address for he is at, as you must all realize, very, very high dimension and I am not at that level, not that high a level, and therefore not privy to certain types of information and certain knowledge. And therefore, at this time anyway, find it difficult to translate that which I have the knowledge into the level of understanding that each of you would comprehend. Waith has been at this for much longer and is able to place into much simpler form that which is complex.

He has said that the time will be when the issue of the Master Plan will be presented in greater detail, but that the way I have given it to you now is sufficient for your knowledge and that it relates so emphatically to that of free will and to remember that free will is always paramount and that the Master Plan and free will are interchangeable.

But Susan, this is a paradox because when good things happen all of us rejoice, and when bad things happen it is not that we invite it, or desire it, or want it to happen.

Susan: Yes, it is. And that is the paradox and that is what you must seek out from your Higher Self. The paradox is for you to work through, my dearest son. It is something that you will come to have an understanding of as you gain greater insights into your Higher Self. It is not something that I can explain to you that you would understand at this time. But rather, to know that it is something that does exist and that you will understand as you seek out the Higher Self, that all that happens is asked for by the Soul for lessons to be learned, and that all is to be rejoiced. It is only in your perceptions and the illusions that you allow yourselves as entities to be surrounded by, that give you this idea of good or bad as perceived by yourselves. And that is where I will end this for now, for it is time now for me to depart. I bid you all farewell and I give you, my love.

Bathusela Enters And States She Is Helping The Female Energies Strengthen

Bathusela: My area of expertise is the helping of the female energies to achieve a greater sense of Self as females. We do this through meditations, primarily, and we will begin to change some of our techniques as we are able now to speak through Mushiba and give you for the record, as Waith says, that which we have been giving you through meditations. We will work through other very strong female energies and give them guidance so that they will serve as examples to you and to other female energies. We have very specific plans for several female energies.

You are referring to the group here?

Bathusela: Partially. We do our work in many different ways, too numerous to elaborate upon and also it would not be understandable at your level, some of the ways in which we are able to do our work.

I had a very interesting meditation the other day. There was something different with this that gave me great inner strength. Since I am a very strong female energy, I am wondering if you could shed some light on this change.

Bathusela: What is occurring, we will simply say to you, relates to the role that Mushiba has with you, and you with her. And we have just made Mushiba's consciousness aware of that which she already knows at the higher levels, and she will be able to discuss it with you now.

It is time now for me to depart. Waith will return now and ~ soon I may be able to exude pink to you. It will come during another phase of cellular change with Mushiba. Perhaps, during the second phase of cellular changes. We are completing the first phase. I bid you all farewell and send to you my blessings from The Angelic Force and the love that goes from all of us in Waith and Company.

A Question To Waith About An Herb Jacques Recommended, Aramis

Waith, the herb that Jacques referred to a few weeks back as Aramis, is that also known as dragonroot or jack-in-the-pulpit?

Yes, indeed. We are all very proud of you, by the way, for the efforts that you have gone through to find this as it is known now in your vernacular, and now the next stage comes and that is in finding it.

This has not been easy.

We never said it would be. We have reasons for presenting you with this challenge which will become clear soon.

Waith, I have become interested in herbs, probably through this search, and I was wondering if it is a worthwhile thing to continue.

Continue on, for you are falling into our plan, shall we say. It is actually your own soul's plan. We have just presented you with the opportunities that your soul has asked for, to be able to manifest, particularly, behaviors, and it is all part of the work that The Community will begin. And it will soon be time when you will all participate in the naming of the community, for it will not be called Waith and Company.
